

WE'RE NOT CUSTOMERS.

We're members!

There's a difference. Members like Clamens and Virginia Tiemann know it. Being part of the Bluebonnet family means they are partial owners of the co-op. They elect co-op leaders and have a say in Bluebonnet business.

At their 210-acre ranch near Brenham they raise F1 tiger-stripe cattle, a Hereford-Brahman cross. Bluebonnet powers their operations. The Tiemanns have been co-op members most of their lives.

“Being a Bluebonnet member means being part of a cooperative that cares about its members. We have great service. We’re in a great place — we have Bluebonnet.”
